

Jamar Jones joined the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's School of Government in March 2013 as a multimedia developer. Jamar has over 20 years of experience in design and multimedia production and his award-winning multimedia pieces provide vital support to School of Government faculty members. Jamar currently manages Digital Services and Technologies. In his role, he is responsible for delivering faculty content to North Carolina public officials through classroom course, webinars, eLearning modules and Zoom teleconferences. He also oversees the Desktop Support team and all classroom technology. Before working for UNC, Jamar worked for St. Augustine's University as the university webmaster.

Jamar holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Computer Information Systems from St. Aug. Jamar is a member of the 1997 CIAA conference championship tournament men's basketball team.

Jamar is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Phi Beta Lambda Business Fraternity and the Association of Computer Professionals. He serves as a board member for the Diversity Community Foundation and he is a committee member for the Diversity Committee at the School of Government. He is also an Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) assistant basketball coach.

Jamar enjoys spending time with his wife, Kelly; daughters, Kaylah and Deja; and cat, Wily in Durham.
